St. Paul's Secondary School

School Annual Report (2007 – 2008)

Our Mission :

We are committed to providing:

- an all-round education based on Christian values that enhance the quality of life both spiritually and materially for our Paulinians so that they can contribute positively to their home, profession and society with “7C”s – charity, conscience, courage, creativity, confidence, competence and commitment.
- a positive learning environment that enhances each student's opportunity to develop through a balanced educational programme which recognizes the needs for growth in 7 areas of knowledge, skills and attitudes, namely: the moral, intellectual, physical, social, aesthetic, emotional and spiritual areas known as the “Paulinian Spectrum”.

Our Vision:

That with a dynamic thinking culture, St. Paul's Secondary School may become an excellent learning and caring community.

Our History :

St. Paul's Secondary School was first founded by the Sisters of St. Paul de Chartres in 1960 as an extension of St. Paul's Convent School to meet the growing needs of science education of girls in Hong Kong. Its mission is to provide an all-round education based on Christian values that enhance the quality of life both spiritually and materially so that the graduates can contribute positively to their family, profession and society.

In keeping with the school's founding principle of meeting the changing needs of the times, St. Paul's Secondary School always endeavours to take on a leadership role in curriculum renewal. It has been the forerunner of science education for girls in Hong Kong in the early 60s, Integrated Science in the late 60s, Computer Studies in the late 70s, Computer Literacy, Civic/Moral and Family Life Education in the early 80s, and Information Technology in education in the 90s. It has widened its curriculum and developed itself into a fully integrated educational institute with Arts, Sciences and Social Sciences at all levels, while Ethics, which is only for school-based assessment and not for public examination, has always been a core subject for the senior secondary classes. In this century, high-order thinking workshops, media education, cross-disciplinary enquiry approach and project-based learning have also been implemented so as to develop self initiative, collaboration and commitment to life-wide and life-long education in the students.

Management and Organization :

The School Management Committee (SMC) 2007/08

Sr. Lily Fung, the Supervisor, chaired the meetings of School Management Committee. Other members of the School Management Committee were: Sr. Julia Chan, Sr. Joanna Marie Cheung, Sr. Margaret Wong and Sr. Damian Lai. The School Management Committee met two times in the academic year to discuss or make decisions on some major matters related to the direction of school development and management. Rev. Mother Jacqueline Ho, the Provincial Superior of the Sisters of St. Paul de Chartres, the Sponsoring Body of our school, also attended the meetings of the SMC to show her concern and to give full support to the development of the school.

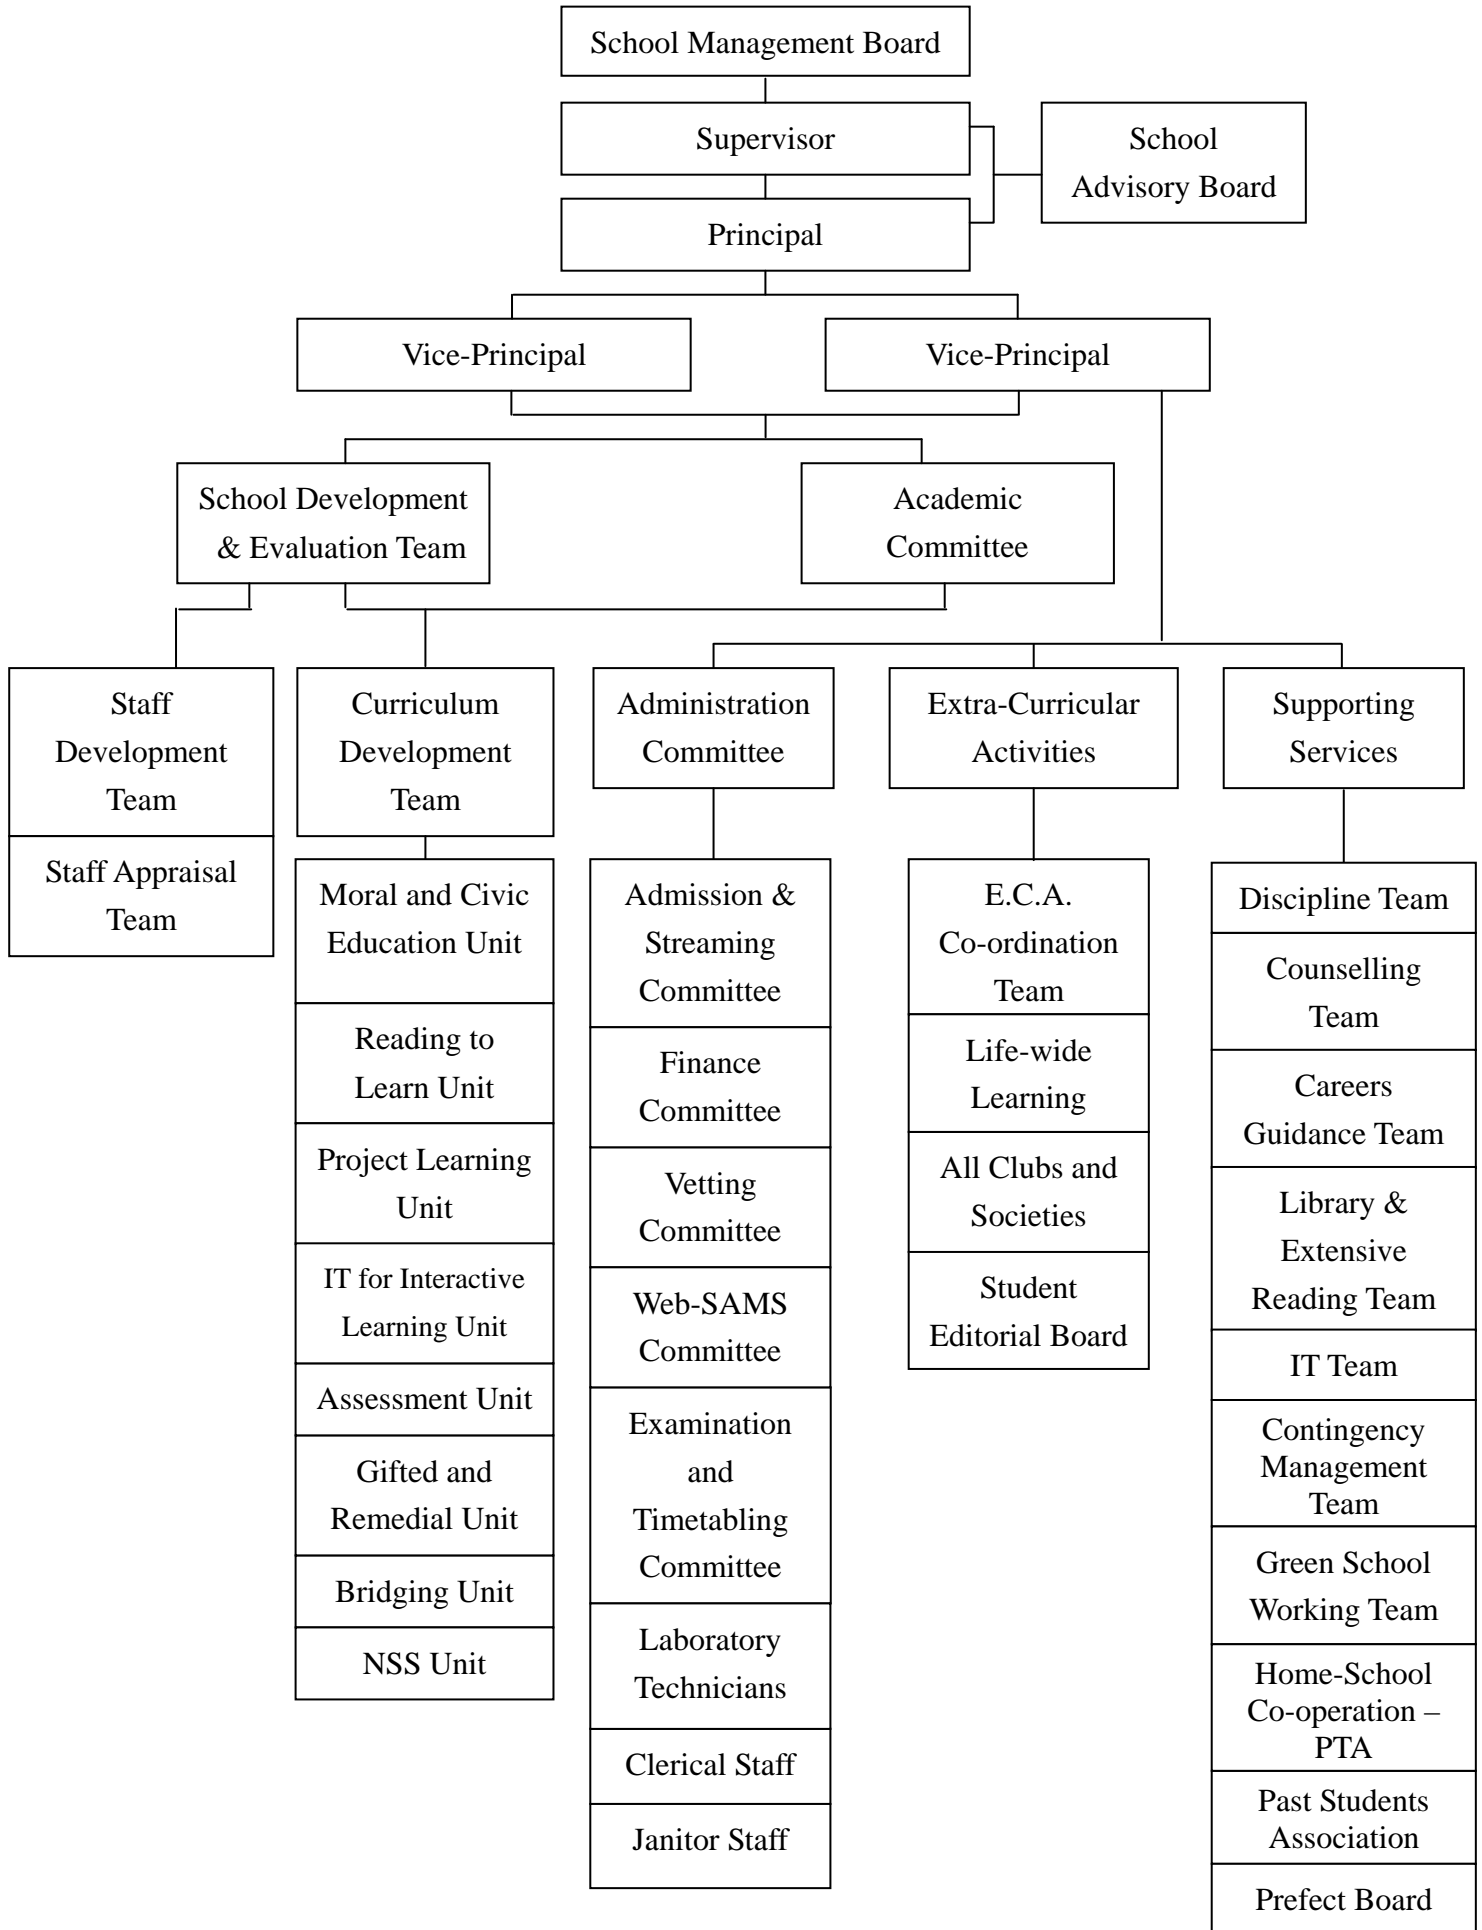

The School Advisory Board

The School Advisory Board served as a consultative group and also as liaison between the SMC and the teachers who were working in the frontline. It comprised of three teachers representatives elected by the teaching staff, a representative from the Executive Committee of the SPSS Alumnae Association, the Vice Principal, Principal and the Supervisor. The Board met twice in the year to discuss matters related to school improvement, taking into consideration the suggestions from the staff.

The Academic Committee

The Academic Committee served as a supervisory and steering committee to pursue academic excellence. Based on the revised organization structure, the Academic Committee further re-structured itself to align well with the school goals in education. The committee composed of the Curriculum Development Team and various units aimed at formulating the curriculum development plan, ensuring smooth curriculum implementation, enhancing students to become self-directed and life-long learners, and promoting learning and teaching in the various Key Learning Areas. To streamline the duties and avoid redundancy, clear division of labour was observed in the units to address the four key tasks, the New Senior Secondary Curriculum, gifted and remedial education, assessment and bridging programmes. The Academic Committee met at least 3 times a year to discuss academic matters and disseminate plans and works of the Curriculum Development Team and the units. In addition, the committee also ensured that the various subject departments and units worked in line with the school major concerns.

School Theme in 2007-2008 : Aspire to Excellence Share for Synergy

Our school theme in 2007-2008 was ‘Aspire to Excellence, Share for Synergy’. The spirit of this school theme was fully reflected in our major concerns of the year. We pursued excellence by raising students’ learning motivation and effectiveness, and generated synergy by means of collaboration.

Major Concerns in 2007-2008

The strategic annual school plan of the year 2007-08 was achieved through carrying out the strategies stated in the two major concerns:

- (1) To enhance students’ motivation and learning effectiveness so as to foster a high-achieving school culture
- (2) To pursue a culture of collaborative learning and teaching among students and teachers

These two major concerns were essential in preparing all of us, teachers and students, to face the challenges of life-long education in the fast-changing and knowledge-based society and to confidently meet the needs for educational reforms.

1. To enhance students' motivation and learning effectiveness so as to foster a high-achieving school culture

To ensure a more balanced development in student learning, and to scaffold students' generic skills for their life-long learning and to prepare a more coherent curriculum at school, teachers carried out continuous work of internal curriculum reforms. The allocation of lesson time was refined to help students of the junior forms get a smoother transition to the NSS curriculum. On the other hand, NSS program plans kept being reviewed and refined.

The school joined the 'Assessment Project' organized by HKIED. Teachers applied different modes of assessment and focused more on formative assessment and assessment for learning. All subject departments formulated strategic plans to promote 'assessment for learning' in the school. A significant number of students found the assessment rubrics and teachers' feedback useful, and felt that they were moving closer to the identity of 'self-directed learners'.

To create a diversified yet coherent learning environment in the school, life-wide learning experiences were closely intertwined with the formal curriculum. Special time-tabling and life-wide learning (LWL) days were practised to facilitate the logistics for students to enrich their learning experiences in a whole-school approach. Class-based LWL activities were also arranged by teachers to offer students more hands-on experiences, such as visits, field trips, excursions, sharing sessions and workshops. Students found that the activities facilitated their whole-person development and saw a more distinct relationship between classroom learning and real-life experiences. Thus their learning motivation was further enhanced.

Reading to learn could not be over-emphasized. Thus special periods for students to do extensive reading and write reflections on their selected books, newspapers and magazines were allocated. Handouts were also prepared by the Reading Team periodically to help students pick up more advanced skills of reading and of book review and appreciation.

The staff establishment's capacity was also enhanced so that teachers could have their teaching and administrative workload reduced, and thus they could concentrate more on teaching and caring for their students' needs.

With increased manpower, split-class teaching could be carried out. This was arranged for English Language in Form 1 and the three core subjects in Form 2. Teaching strategies like pair work, group work, reports and presentations were modified and adopted by different subject departments to enhance academically weaker students' motivation and learning effectiveness.

The provision of electronic learning resources, such as English Builder, Wise News and Campus TV programmes, also played an important role in catering for individual learner differences. Students of different abilities could utilize the online materials available to them to maximize their own learning. Such resources could encourage the spirit of self-directed learning.

2. To pursue a culture of collaborative learning and teaching among students and teachers

The framework of collaboration was reinforced to enhance interaction among teachers, between students and teachers, and among students themselves.

Regular collaboration was carried out on both inter- and intra-departmental levels to enhance the overall effectiveness of the school curriculum so as to create a more student-centred learning environment in the school. Teachers further collaborated and organized cross-disciplinary activities with other clubs or teams.

Teachers found peer lesson observation a particularly useful tool for collaboration, especially between junior and senior form teachers. Therefore this would be further strengthened and encouraged.

In class, teachers gave ample chances for students to interact with them, by encouraging them to try to respond to their high-order thinking questions or inviting them to voice their opinions or raise their queries. Outside class, students were also welcome to consult their teachers or to receive individual coaching for internal or external activities such as competitions. These created chances of student-teacher interaction and collaboration.

In classroom activities and project assignments, students were given more chances to do group work and peer assessment. This could help them learn from and with one another, and thus encourage students' peer collaboration. Such peer collaboration was even extended to the group discussion via the SPARK platform.

With excellence and synergy, it is hoped that our school will be able to nurture more talents to contribute to our society.

External School Review (ESR)

The External School Review (ESR) of our school was conducted in October 2007. The ESR team issued an ESR Report validating our school's self-evaluation report and recording the details of the performance of our school after observing lessons, shadowing students, conducting focus group meetings with school personnel, students and parents, and scrutinizing existing school documents for four days.

The ESR had been a growing experience for the school community at all levels – the students, the teaching staff, the middle managers and the school administrators. The school was empowered by the judgment made by the ESR Team on our strengths and treasured the advices and suggestions on the developmental direction of the school.

The Parent-Teacher Association (PTA)

The bond of cooperation between home and school is one of the key elements of student education. The PTA organized tea gatherings, talks, workshops, visits and published periodical newsletter for parents. Parents actively participated in our school activities such as Sports Day, Dance Competition, Verse and Play Competition, Reflection Day, Famine Lunch and visit to the St. Joseph's Home for the Elderly. All these activities helped strengthen the home-school, teacher-student and parent-child cooperation and communication.

Apart from active participation of school activities, parents also played a vital role in school development. Funds raised from “Paulinian Sparkle 2008”, a biennial spectacular variety show jointly organized by the school and PTA on 6 July 2008, were used to facilitate needy students' participation in cultural activities within and outside school. It was a wonderful opportunity to display our students' artistic accomplishments and performing talents.

SPSS Alumnae Association (SPSS AA)

At the 2008 Annual General Meeting (AGM) held on 25 April 2008, members voted unanimously to approve the name being changed from SPSS Past Students Association (SPSS PSA) to SPSS Alumnae Association (SPSS AA).

The SPSS Alumnae Association continued to give support to the school with donations to the publication fund, awards and a scholarship to students who excelled in their respective services and extra-curricular activities. In support of the School Orchestra, a fund-raising Starlight Concert was organized by the Past Students Association on 30 November 2007. A number of past students came to school and shared their professional life and working experiences in the career talks for our senior form students. The new committee members also participated in school activities like Speech Day, St. Paul's Day, Christmas celebration and Paulinian Sparkle actively to maintain our close linkage and harmonious relationship.

Future Direction – Major Concerns for 2008-2009.

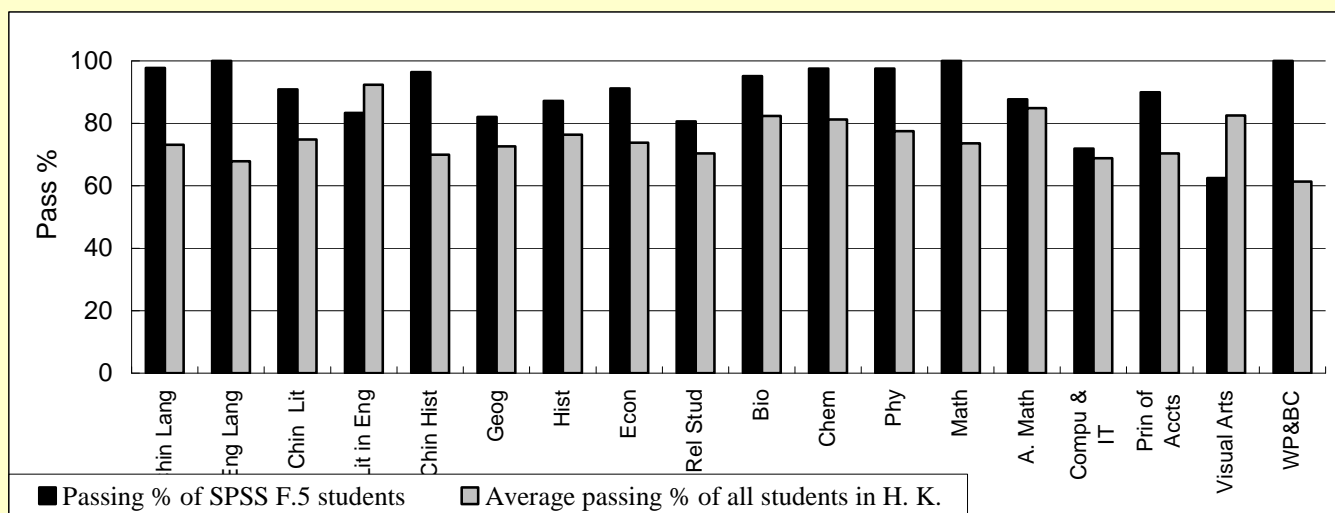

- 1. To sustain, explore and share good educational practices so as to further foster a high-achieving school culture
- 2. To ensure a smooth transition to the NSS curriculum
